Forget AGI (Artificial General Intelligence) for a moment—current Large Language and Vision Models still struggle with tasks that we humans find relatively easy. 🧠

I've just published an article where I share a collection of such "breaking tasks"—challenging prompts that reveal the limitations of these models. It's a small sample, but it highlights where AI still has room to grow. 💡

Apart from some of the complex tasks, I have also included some of the content generation prompts I leverage for writing LinkedIn posts and Medium blogs, just in case, you are interested.

Curious to see if you've encountered tasks that leave AI stumped? I'd love to hear your thoughts and examples! 🙌
