Had a nice time speaking on a panel about practical AI adoption for small businesses at BNI PUNE WEST Confluence 2026.

We discussed how AI is no longer just for large enterprises, today, even small and local businesses can use AI tools to improve productivity, marketing, customer support, and decision-making.

Also shared insights on prompt engineering, why the quality of your prompts directly impacts the quality of AI outputs, and how anyone can write better prompts with clarity, context, and intent.

Finally, we explored AI agents, what they are, how they automate repetitive tasks, and how businesses can use them to scale operations without scaling costs.

Encouraging to see so much interest in making AI practical, accessible, and business-focused. Looking forward to more such conversations.
